Non-clinical trauma-literacy and directional-change framework for peer support, reentry, recovery, veteran services, and institutional training.

WHAT IT IS

WRH is a 75-session structured trauma-literacy curriculum that teaches trauma responses, addiction patterns, freeze responses, shame cycles, and survival behavior as predictable mechanisms — not character flaws. It is non-clinical, non-disclosure-based, and peer-deliverable.

WRH is built for populations that disengage from traditional therapeutic framing and for settings where survival behavior is routinely misread as defiance, weakness, or moral failure.

CORE MODEL

Survival Map — five-part model showing where patterns came from:
The Flood · The Alarm · Survival Moves · The Rescue Boat · The Way Back

Trajectory Engine — directional-change model:
Pattern → Fork → Interrupt → Repetition → Evidence → Direction

WHO IT SERVES

- Recovery & peer support programs
- Reentry & justice-involved populations
- Drug court & specialty court settings
- Veteran-serving organizations
- County nonprofits & community services
- Institutional training environments
